[redacted] The Soviets in the city are not permitted to visit the Russian Club and cannot associate with the Chinese civilians nor the White Russian members of the community. As an example of the rigid enforcement of this segregation order, [redacted] a White Russian [redacted] who had lived in Shanghai for 25 years and had a son who remained in the USSR during this period. The son, who is now an engineer was sent to Shanghai [redacted] and he immediately contacted his father. The son suddenly disappeared after the initial contact with his parent and it was later learned that he was returned to the Soviet Union because he violated the non-fraterniza-tion policy. [redacted] trip from Shanghai to Canton [redacted] there were six Soviet civilians on the same railway coach, and upon arrival in Canton a Soviet wife and her four children met one of these "foreigners."
